

Queen Victoria Era Stamps of St. Lucia

Scott Martz 1/2013

Updated March 2026 by Tom Fortunato

Saint Lucia was inhabited by the Arawak and Kalinago Caribs before European contact in the early 16th century. It was colonized by the British and French in the 17th century and was the subject of several possession changes until 1814, when it was ceded to the British by France for the final time.

Here's an 1849 cover mailed from St. Lucia sent to London in the days before stamps were used with a crowned circle "Paid at St. Lucia" mark. Postage was one shilling.

The colony of St. Lucia began using British stamps in 1858, when it was mandated that all mail leaving the island must be prepaid and have affixed stamps as proof.

GENERAL POST OFFICE
APRIL 16, 1858

SIR,

I AM DIRECTED BY THE POSTMASTER GENERAL TO ACQUAINT YOU THAT THE LORDS OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY HAVE AUTHORIZED BRITISH POSTAGE STAMPS TO BE USED IN PAYMENT.....

THE FOLLOWING DENOMINATIONS OF BRITISH POSTAGE STAMPS MUST HENCEFORTH BE KEPT AT YOUR OFFICE FOR SALE TO THE PUBLIC, VIZ;

SIX PENNY
FOUR PENNY
AND PENNY STAMPS

Fifty pounds in face value stamps were dispatched to the island, thought to be a two-month supply. The 4d paid the western hemisphere rate, the 6d paid the single rate to Great Britain, and the 1d paid any make-up rate. They were authorized for use through May 1860 by which time specific St. Lucia stamps were expected to be ready for use.

A cancellation device was sent to the colony with the stamps, with the unique colony identifier, A 11. Its first recorded use was August 28, 1858.

((A 11))

The head of Queen Victoria was engraved by C.H. Jeens in May of 1860 for use on the 9 pence stamp for South Australia. That engraving was placed in a vertical oval large enough for the head, surrounded by a plain band with the words St. Lucia and Postage, and an engraved background in the corners.

Jeens was paid £2 12s 6p for the drawing, and £9 9s for the engraving. This design was considered by many as one of Perkins Bacon's most elegant.

The stamps were printed using a line engraved process. To save money for the colony one plate was made with only the ink's color differentiating its denomination.

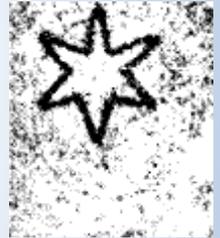

With fewer than 200 people on the island being able read or write, this may have been another reason to forego inscribing values on each.

The final plates consisted of of 240 stamps per sheet.

Stamps from the first run were reportedly printed by a Mr. Dix on October 10. The total number of stamps from the printing runs by denomination were:

- 36 sheets of the 1p rose-red (8,640 stamps)
- 13 sheets of the 4p blue (3,120 stamps)
- 17 Sheets of the 6p green (4,080 stamps)

The first issue was printed on paper produced by Rush Mills in Northampton on watermarked paper with small six-pointed stars and “POSTAGE” repeated twice along the sheet’s sides and once on the top and bottom edge with 5 parallel lines between the wording.

Three days later on October 14 the stamps were documented as being perforated by a Miss Stewart.

The perforation needles were set to 14-16, but they often became clogged resulting in rough perforations.

The first issue was shipped from Perkins Bacon in Great Britain by island packet on November 17 and placed on sale December 18.

Castries, St. Lucia street scene, 1860

Stamps with perforations clear on all sides free of the design are extremely rare. This example has perforations clear of the design on all sides.

Stamp shades of all three abound due to ink batches with slight differences in the mix and exposure over time.

Scott #2

In 1863 another printing of these stamps took place using the same printing plate but through De La Rue printers. Their results were not as clear as the first printing, mostly due to the wear of the plate. While the ink mixes used were different, causing slightly different coloration and smearing, they are easily identified because of the change of watermark to the Crown and CC type.

January 27, 1882 folded letter from St. Lucia to London, paid at the correct 4d postage rate, also noted in red crayon. Still, the shade of the 4d yellow is very close to that of the 1-shilling orange, potentially causing confusion.

In 1881 stamps were surcharged with denominations. The first was a ½ d in green, and 2 ½ d in scarlet. Perforated 14.

Scott #15, #17

In 1883 five additional stamps were prepared with surcharged denominations on new paper, which had the Crown and CA watermark. These were also perforated 14.

Scott #19-23

In 1884 the 4 pence in yellow was reprinted, and this time it was perforated 12.

Scott #24

In 1885 2 additional values were prepared, but never put into use, a half penny, and 6 pence. The 6 pence is extremely rare.

The 1883 stamp issues followed the trend of the rest of the empire by releasing the first large scale key type design used by multiple colonies and territories. The first 6 values were done in single colors.

The second group was done in 2 colors, highlighting the country and denomination, except for the 1d color change.

Two different dies were used to produce these key types,

Die 1 or A,
Die 2 or B.

Here is the guide from the Scott Catalogue.

DIE A

DIE B

DIE A:

1. The lines in the groundwork vary in thickness and are not uniformly straight.
2. The seventh and eighth lines from the top, in the groundwork, converge where they meet the head.
3. There is a small dash in the upper part of the second jewel in the band of the crown.
4. The vertical color line in front of the throat stops at the sixth line of shading on the neck.

DIE B:

1. The lines in the groundwork are all thin and straight.
2. All the lines of the background are parallel.
3. There is no dash in the upper part of the second jewel in the band of the crown.
4. The vertical color line in front of the throat stops at the eighth line of shading on the neck.

And here is the guide from the Stanley Gibbons Catalogue.

VICTORIAN KEY TYPE

Die I

1. The ball of decoration on the second point of the crown appears as a dark mass of lines.
2. Dark vertical shading separates the front hair from the bun.
3. The vertical line of colour outlining the front of the throat stops at the sixth line of shading on the neck.
4. The white space in the coil of the hair above the curl is roughly the shape of a pin's head.

Die II

1. There are very few lines of colour in the ball and it appears almost white.
2. A white vertical strand of hair appears in place of the dark shading.
3. The line stops at the eighth line of shading.
4. The white space is oblong, with a line of colour partially dividing it at the left end.

Plates numbered 1 and 2 are both Die I. Plates 3 and 4 are Die II.

In 1892 there were three overprints done, one of which was bisected.

Several varieties are known, including varieties to individual lettering and double surcharges.

In case you were wondering... from the 2008 Scott catalog...

Values for unused stamps are for examples with original gum as defined in the catalogue introduction. Very fine examples of Nos. 1-26 will have perforations touching the design on at least one side due to the narrow spacing of the stamps on the plates. Stamps with perfis clear of the framelines on all four sides are very scarce and will command higher prices.

Forgery

Sperati forgery

A total of 40 stamps were issued under Queen Victoria's reign for the colony of St. Lucia, all of which carried her portrait. Classic designs never go out of style!

The End

Much information and several images used came from the November 2014 Royan Philatelic Society London presentation PDF on St. Lucia by John Keegan here.
